

1789-1800: The United States was a young nation, and the electoral process was still being developed. The first presidential election was held in 1789, and the winner was George Washington.

